PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear fellow members:

The Executive Committee of NASAP recently met in Chicago. One of the main agenda items was evaluating the proposals for funding by the Clonick Estate.

I believe NASAP owes a debt of gratitude to Sydney Roth for the stimulation of creativity his offer produced. All proposals were forwarded to Sydney. However, three had the endorsement of the Executive Committee.

First, a video-tape series on Active Parent Training by Michael Popkin. Second, a proposal for a challenge grant for next year's fund raising drive. And third, an Adlerian Family Education book by Weltha Logan and several other authors. Several of the other proposals fulfilled the guidelines for funding but it was felt that they needed further refinement and development. Hopefully, they may be funded in the future. Among those were a film about the contribution of Rudolf Dreikurs that Nancy Cannon, Kevin O'Connor and Gerald Cross were suggesting and an application of Adlerian psychology in management and supervision suggested by Richard Royal Kopp.

The proposal guidelines included having an impact for the betterment of humanity and secondly, that funds would be generated and returned to NASAP to fund NASAP projects.

The Executive Committee also reviewed the dues structure and the cost per member for services provided by NASAP. Recommendations will be made to the Delegate Assembly based on our deliberations and findings. In summary, recommendations are to continue the Participating, Family and Student Memberships, eliminate the sliding salary scale and have one membership fee.

There was exciting news that a ten session TV video-tape series on Adlerian principles of child rearing has been produced in Spanish by Steve Stein in Honduras, Central America. Efforts will be made to bring the video tapes to the California Convention and have them reviewed by Spanish speaking NASAP members at that time.

One of the goals of the Executive Committee is to develop a budget that can be sustained by dues and convention earnings so that additional funds can be used for funding creative projects, which in turn have the potential of returning to NASAP profits and royalties to fund still more projects. Suggested projects that can be started through fund raising and a challenge grant, or other funding,:

- 1) audio visual series demonstrating Adlerian techniques as applied to the family, classroom and clinical situations;
- 2) audio visual materials in foreign languages;
- 3) a parent education newsletter to specifically tie together various parent education efforts throughout the country;
- 4) an historical film on the development of Adlerian Psychology in North America;
- 5) an audio visual production on the use of democratic techniques in various settings;
- 6) development of a public relations project.

Other suggestions are welcome.

I am looking forward to seeing you in Ottawa, which promises to be an exciting meeting. Already 250 people have registered at the time of this writing, three weeks prior to the meeting.

Warmest regards,

Ronald J. Pancner, M.D.
President

REGIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

Region II - Midwest

At a meeting of members from Region II at the Convention in Cleveland, some goals were set to be reached by the next annual convention, according to John Nield. They are:

1. Have an organization elected representative.
2. The representative should be aware of the Constitution which has been sent by way of the volunteers from Cleveland.
3. The representatives would attend the meeting in Santa Rosa.
4. Have a list of concerns of area members and possible solutions within the guidelines of the Constitution (because of the distance between membership centers, subdivisions of the region may be helpful).

John has volunteers who have aided in the process of gathering material. He would like to hear from Region II members by the time of the Semi-Annual Meeting in Ottawa November 6. He will continue to gather information into December. Contact him at following:

OF GENERAL INTEREST

Suggestions Needed

$10,000 awaits the Alfred Adler Institute of Chicago from Woods Charitable Fund just as soon as graduates and previous students contribute $10,000.

Eugene J. McClory, President, pointed out that the $20,000 would be of major help in the operation of the Institute. And the spirit generated by a successful effort would aid in the formation of the AAI Alumni Association and provide inspiration for proceeding with the offering of a doctoral program as early as next year, he added.

To qualify for the $10,000 match, gifts of $50 or more must be in by May 31, 1981. Preliminary discussions indicate pace setting gifts of $1,000, $750, and $500 will be very much needed. Until the Alumni Association has been operative for a period of time, intensive contact of all previous students will be difficult.

Suggestions from previous students and others are being sought, McClory noted. Send them to:

The Family Education Center of Petaluma, California, has the pleasure of inviting you to the 30th Annual NASAP Convention. The dates to be put in your calendar are June 10 to 15, 1982.

Now is the time to start planning to come to this 1982 celebration. Plan to come to learn, to teach and to be with your fellow Adlerians. For those of you who wondered what a convention is all about, it is time to stop wondering and start one of the most positive habits you will ever have. This California convention will have all the excitement one might imagine in this land of sunshine and big trees.

Virginia Satir is the keynote speaker. She is recognized as a moving force in family therapy and is author of People Making and Conjoint Family Therapy, among others. It promises to be an evening to remember.

Other events in the making include a Country-Western dance, a tennis tournament and tours of the wine country. The flavor of the workshops is centered around the theme, "Care and Connect."

Watch for future announcements and registration materials. For more information, write

Social Interest Example

Lois Millington of West Vancouver reported that in June, 1981 she set up a "Trust" Fund of $1,000, the interest of which provides an award to a Grade 12 student at the school where she teaches, King George Secondary. The award this year was $100.

The award is to be made to a student in financial need demonstrating all-around attributes of service, sportsmanship and scholarship. Should such a candidate also actively promote the preservation and acquisition of lands for public parks, preference will be given to that candidate. The award is to be known as the "Lois Millington Award."

In the preamble to the presentation, Lois credited Alfred Adler and based the preamble on the three main life tasks--Love, Work, Friendship. The gift of the award this year was presented in honor of the people in her life who represent those areas for her: her family, her colleagues around the world and her friends. She hopes to make the presentation each year and share Adler's gifts in this way. Lois said, "As I had been assisted in various ways throughout my education, I thought it would be fitting to 'pass it along,' and who better to honour than Adler!"

International Union of Family Organizations

The International Union of Family Organizations sponsored a conference in Montreal in August with the theme, "On the Role of the Family in the Child's Education." Liliane Bensinger represented NASAP at this conference and set up a special booth with handouts on NASAP and copies of articles pertaining to Parent and Teacher Study Groups. Liliane indicated that this information was most useful in informing the participants at the conference of our work in family and school education.

There were delegates present from Europe, Asia, Africa and North America. Many similar problems in structure and education were expressed regarding all families, according to Liliane. This included single parents, responsibility to a higher authority and evasion of professional responsibility.

Some of the important points where nations differ were stressed. In Africa, the close unity of the large family circle (including distant relatives), before and after marriage, plays an important part in influencing the child's education. Belgium, France and other nations specialize in organized surveys regarding the needs of the people; such as, maternity leave, day care centers, etc. They then establish organizations according to the needs. In Spain, there is an attempt to enforce strict discipline with the youth. However, the problems of delinquency have not been reduced.

The conference started with an Open Forum, where each nation presented its concerns and hopes and suggested ways for finding solutions to the existing problems. The group then separated into three workshops on Housing, Education, and Family Movement. Each individual chose the specific workshop of interest and gave recommendations regarding possible solutions.

Lilian reports that our recommendations on cooperation and democratic problem solving with teachers, parents and counselors and the young human being were very favorably received.

New Adlerian Publications

Maintaining Sanity in the Classroom, Rudolf Dreikurs, Bernice Grunwald, Floy C. Pepper, published by Harper & Row, New York, 1981. Paper. 384 pages. $14.50. Second edition. The new, completely updated edition of this clear, practical, and highly successful text on handling today's special behavior problems in the classroom. It explores interpersonal relationships between teacher and student... teacher and parents...and especially between student and student.

Couples' Handbook for Effective Communication (CHEC). G. Hugh Allred and Thomas T. Graff. Published by Brigham Young University, Provo, UT, 1979. Paper. 120 pages. $4.95. CHEC is written to provide a systematic approach to improving communication in any two-person relationship. Couples using CHEC can change their communication in desired directions in a very short time when they are working in a group guided by a competent leader.

Leader's Guide to CHEC. G. Hugh Allred and Thomas T. Graff. Published by Brigham Young University, Provo, UT, 1979. Paper. 180 pages. $9.95, including an audio cassette.

The Challenge of Friendship, Shirley Gould. Published by Elsevier-Dutton Publishing Co., Inc., New York, 1981. Cloth. 120 pages. $16.95. People seek to establish social contacts in order to enrich their life experiences; this book shows how parents can help their children to make friends.

Essential Readings in Natural High Actualization, an anthology by W.E. O'Connell. Published by North American Graphics, Chicago, IL, 1981. Paper. 60 pages. $2.50. The four articles in this anthology: "Natural High Therapy: The Psychospiritual Pilgrimage," "The Friends of Adler," "A Re-solution of Adlerian-Jungian Opposites," and "Freudian Humour: the Eupsychia of Everyday Life." Also includes aphorisms published for the first time.

Adlerian Counseling: Proven Concepts and Strategies. Second Edition by Thomas J. Sweeney. Published by Accelerated Development, Inc., Muncie, IN, 1981. Paper. 318 pages. $13.45. The author has expanded the Adlerian strategies to illustrate application in a wider range of everyday life. The reader can gain a better understanding of applied Adlerian concepts and strategies through the inclusion of a complete typescript of an Adlerian counselor conducting a family interview and a typescript of a family council.

Socio-Teleo Analysis: Stories for Classroom Discussion, Gregory V. LaPointe and Christine G. Overtom. Paper. 144 pages. $5.95. 23 stories with discussion guide. The stories depict the behavioral problems of youth. The content and endings have been arranged to provoke discussion.

Life Style: Theory, Practice and Research. Second edition by Leroy Baruth and Daniel Eckstein. Published by Kendall/Hunt Publishing Co., Dubuque, IA, 1981. Paper 224 pages. $12.95. Compilation of 31 manuscripts by leading Adlerian therapists on actual theory, applications, and relevant life style research.

NASAP Radio Spots Available

Where'd you get my brush, Jenny? From your desk. You have no right to...Will you kids shut up! Those kids! I feel like I'm going to explode! Before you blow up, show up---at a parent study group. This message from the North American Society of Adlerian Psychology

This is a sample of one of the radio spots available on a reel to be used in your area with room for a 10-second statement to be added at the end to tell when and where local study groups will begin.

The Radio Spots are available in the NASAP central office and have been made possible by a grant from the Seymour E. Clonick estate.

There are seven 20-second motivational statements designed to promote attendance at parent study groups. Each package of spots costs $10.00 and includes:

- 1 reel of spots for a radio station;
- 1 cassette copy for local group to hear what is on the reel tape;
- 1 script of the spots;
- 1 set of directions for using the spots;
- 1 feedback form to be returned to NASAP to report on your experience with the spots.

NASAP is grateful to the Clonick estate for providing the funds for the project and to Gary McKay and Larry Schnebly for writing and producing the spots.

Order from: NASAP

-- COME TO OTTAWA, CANADA, November 6-8, 1981--

Adler-Nijinsky

There have been numerous responses to the article in the New York Times and in Archives of General Psychiatry on Adler and Nijinsky (see p. 6, September NASAP Newsletter). As reported in October, the Ballet Review reprinted the article. Science News Magazine, New Republic, Readers' Digest and London Times have expressed an interest in printing something on the subject. Heinz Ansbacher has received several phone calls and requests for reprints. Dr. Ansbacher so aptly stated, "Adler is getting quite a ride on the coat tails of Nijinsky!"

Fund Raising

Milton and Edith Dewey went to the Family Education Center of Delaware and presented two programs for the membership. Many FEC'ers attended to learn from and enjoy the Deweys and the group appreciated their sharing. Betty Lou Bettner reports that a "hat was passed" for NASAP's fund raising campaign and $70 was collected in honor of the Deweys.

A few days earlier, the Deweys made a presentation at the Family Education Center of Northwest New Jersey in Sparta and received an honorarium. After hearing of the gift that was sent by the Delaware group in their honor, the Dewey's turned over the check received from the New Jersey group!

The Society appreciates all of these expressions of support -- Social Interest put into practice again and again!

NEWSNOTES

Region I - Far West

CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles--The Orange County Family Education Center launched its fall season with a family counseling demonstration by Kirsten Sonstegard and Richard Betts. Kirsten and Dick were in southern California to celebrate the 60th wedding anniversary of Dick's parents and combined the personal visit with the workshop!

Petaluma--The Family Education Center is in full swing with their Fall of 1981 10-week session to educate and support parents, children, teachers and nurses with Adlerian techniques. This year, in addition, a Parent-Teen Group has begun with the same format as the Family Education center with the addition of "a circle within a circle," where questions like, "How do you feel about the use of marijuana?" may be addressed by both teenager and adult. The Teen Group meets weekly and is receiving and filling a lot of teacher requests for workshops. Cynthia Foster, a FEC second year intern, is responsible for getting this program off the ground.

FEC is training their fourth group of first-year interns, and many of the interns from previous years continue to be involved in strengthening and contributing to the program. For example, Mary Frazier, who completed the 2nd year internship last Spring, is now enlarging the Counselling Services, and all the Counselors are experienced FEC interns.

The FEC has adopted a new and very successful format for their newsletter. If you are interested in receiving a copy, write the innovative creator, Pam Johnson-Lieb

ILLINOIS

Chicago--AAI of Chicago: At the October 11 Graduation Exercises of the Institute, 13 graduates received Master of Arts degrees in Counseling Psychology or Certificates in Psychotherapy, awarded by Board Chairman Harold Mosak and President Eugene McClory. The graduation address was delivered by William Carroll, psychologist and attorney. The Certificate of Appreciation was awarded to James B. Garnett of the Executive Service Corps of Chicago. Also speaking to the graduates were Bernard Shulman, Sadie Dreikurs, Ronald Pancner and Kevin O'Connor, Acting President of the AAI Alumni Association

Four of the 13 graduates completed a major portion of their work in their own locales. Among these, was NASAP President Ronald Pancner. An indication of the growing number of students who are combining local Adlerian training with the Institute's programs: 10 of the 16 students admitted to candidacy in September do not reside in the Chicago area.

Be sure to note the announcement on page 3 of this newsletter of the Institute's $10,000 Matching Grant from the Woods Charitable Fund. President McClory indicates that your suggestions are most welcome.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Washington--Richard A. Betts, D.A. member, retired from the Air Force the end of September. He and his wife, Kirsten Sonstegard, founded a group called "Action Associates." Their plan is to market workshops using Adlerian ideas to help government and industry. They hope to employ other Adlerians to present workshops.

The first assignment for Action Associates is to be the technical advisor on Employee Assistance Programs to Macro Systems, Inc. Macro was awarded a contract by the Office of Personnel Management to develop an evaluation instrument for all federal government agencies using Employee Assistance Programs. This is a great first step for Action Associates.

Kathy and Bill Kvols-Riedler will be presenting workshops on Redirecting Children's Misbehavior in the D.C. area in November. They will be at the Individual Psychology Association November 9, 10; Sunshine Youth Services in Silver Spring, MD on November 11 and in the Montgomery County Public Schools in Rockville, MD on November 12. CENTRAL AMERICA

Honduras--Steve Stein, NASAP member working in Honduras, reports that they recently completed the production and broadcast of a series of ten 30-minute video tapes on child-rearing, Adlerian style. All indications are that the series was received very well and there was a significant audience. The positive reception has encouraged them to make a number of improvements, add two programs to the series, and even look for further opportunities to introduce the program in other Spanish speaking countries.

The series, called "Los Tiempos Cambian" (The Changing Times), uses a number of techniques; such as puppets, interviews in the streets, and acted out and narrated scenes of family life in order to introduce the public to Adlerian/Dreikursian ideas. Each program gives credit for its inspiration to the Spanish versions of Children: The Challenge and Systematic Training for Effective Parenting (STEP).

ISRAEL

Tel Aviv--The AAI of Tel Aviv announces the establishment of a special advanced training institute, the "Tel Aviv Seminar," an Intensive Training Program in Process Therapy. It will be conducted in Israel for eight consecutive weeks from early January through February, 1982.

This 200-hour intensive training and supervision program has been specially designed for advanced students and new practitioners in the mental health professions from North America and Europ. It offers a rare opportunity to live and study abroad while participating in the unique kind of outreach programs, educational and clinical services, and staff development procedures that have been pioneered at the Israel Adler Institute. All courses, case and supervision work will be conducted in English.

Tuition for the program is $1,000 with room and half-board (in private homes) costing an additional $200 per month. Courses include:

- Impasse/Priority Therapy: Case Seminar*--
Nira Kfir
- Seminar on Early Recollections and Lifestyle*--
Mica Katz
- Group Procedure and Group Leadership*--Shula
Alsheich
- Family Therapy*--Yossie Blumen
- Advanced Adlerian Theory & Philosophy*--Achi
Yotam, Janet Turner
- Marriage Counseling*--Shlomo Shaked

Interested students should contact the American Coordinator, Janet Turner, as soon as possible since space available is very limited. She will answer any questions about the academic program or living arrangements, and assist with travel arrangements. Contact:
