PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear fellow members:

The Executive Committee will meet September 17 and 18 in Chicago. Agenda items will include the following:

- Budget
- By-Law changes
- Convention plans
- Section committee reports
- Fund Raising Drive
- Membership
- Individual Education Films and Manual
- International Congress of Individual Psychology in Montreal

We've received a progress report on the Individual Education tapes funded by the Seymour E. Clonick Estate. The filming is completed and they are being edited at the University of British Columbia. A manual will be prepared to accompany the tapes. These materials will be owned and distributed for sale by NASAP. I'd like to thank Ray Corsini for his enthusiastic, energetic efforts to complete the filming.

Exciting news from Boulder, Colorado regarding the final tally for NASAP '83--Linda Wise, Convention Administrator, has sent her final report and a check for $16,124.18. Sincere thanks to Linda for her organizational skills and to Kathy and Bill Kvols-Riedler of the Rudolf Dreikurs Institute of Colorado for their commitment and efforts to host an excellent convention. We are very appreciative of the convention's financial success due to our dependence on convention revenues as a substantial portion of our budget.

I hope everyone is having a good summer.

With Warmest Regards,

Kathleen A. Walton
President

LETTERS TO EDITOR

First State-wide Conference

Corvallis, Oregon
July 25, 1983

North Carolina is to be congratulated for its announcement of an Adlerian conference. They believe it "may be the first state-wide Adlerian conference in the United States." (NASAP Newsletter July-August 1983)

The Oregon Society of Individual Psychology board has asked me to inform the NASAP Newsletter that Oregon has just completed its 21st consecutive year of State-wide conferences.
Speakers and leaders have been the "Adlerian's
Who's Who of America"--the Adlers, Ansbachers, Dreikurs, Shulman, Mosak, and a dozen other prominent Adlerians.

--Maurice Bullard, Historian

Ed. Note--Whose face is red?! We certainly know
of Oregon's active organization and successful conferences. We regret not catching the incorrect
statement about "first
state-wide" conference.
At least we know some-
one reads the newsletter!

New York Committee

The New York Committee, Region V, has published its first newsletter. According to its editors, Dr. Lucia Radl and Barbara Meltzer, its aims are: to provide information about what is happening in and around Greater New York, to tell what members are doing professionally and otherwise, and to share needs and ideas. The Spring-Summer, 1983 issue was attractive and informative.

OF GENERAL INTEREST

In Memory of Eleanore Redwin

In May, 1983, a woman who was to many a dear friend and respected colleague and to others a cherished and admired counselor and teacher, Eleanore Redwin, passed away.

Ms. Redwin grew up in Vienna during the 1920's. While at the University, studying to become a counselor, she attended Alfred Adler's seminars. In 1933, she opened a nursery school in her home, where Adler referred his more difficult pre-school aged patients. In the beginnings of the Hitler years, Ms. Redwin took several positions in and around Austria working with mentally ill children and adolescents. As the political environment became more restricting, she found the need to leave the troubled region and took refuge in England. It was there that she contacted Rudolf Dreikurs, who suggested she continue her work in the U.S., in Chicago. In 1945 she instituted the first Child Guidance Center in Chicago and later, with Dreikurs, set up the Adler Institute, followed by the establishment of the Family Education Association.

Elly Redwin was described as follows, in a tribute written by Eleanor D. Laser and Barbara Steiger, "Her life and her effect on the lives of others (families in general and women in particular) is significant. As an Adlerian counselor with both private and public practices, she has greatly influenced patients and teachers alike... She has always lived what she counseled--go out into the world and do something; dare to be what you can. There are so many people throughout the world who hold their heads higher because of Elly Redwin."

(The informational source for this article was largely drawn from "Eleanor Redwin--Taking Steps," by Eleanor D. Laser and Barbara Steiger, 1977; FEA of Chicago publication.)

Author's Luncheon

The following authors were honored at a luncheon at the 1983 Convention in Boulder in May:

- Marion Balla
- Oscar Christensen
- Edith Dewey
- Dan Eckstein
- Lynn Lott
- Gary McKay
- Jane Nelson
- Betty Jane Overholt
- Genevieve Painter
- Tom Schramski
- Manford Sonstegard

The authors shared ideas and suggestions for prospective authors.

Marion Balla, NASAP Vice-President, presented several Adlerian books to the Boulder Public Library.

What Do I Do When...?

Dr. Lucia Radl reports the publication of a guide offering many practical suggestions to counselors and therapists on problems which frequently arise in their practice. What Do I Do When...? has been published by Social Interest Press, 670 Northwestern Ave., Wooster, OH 44691.

STEP/Teen

Systematic Training for Effective Parenting of Teens by Don Dinkmeyer, Sr. and Gary McKay is now available through the publisher. The complete kit is $75; STEP/Teen Sampler is $5.50; and the STEP/Teen Parent's Guide is $6.50. This group discussion program paves the way to improved parent-teen relationships, more responsible teenage behavior in the home, in the school and in the community. Contact: American Guidance Service, Publishers' Building, Circle Pines, MN 55014.

Linda Albert's Advice for Coping with Kids

Linda Albert reports that her book has been chosen by the Better Homes and Gardens Book Club as one of the October selections. Many new people will no doubt be introduced to Adlerian principles of raising kids through this book club offer.

A Special Appeal to Adlerian Educators: Teachers, Administrators, College & University Professors

North American schools are benefiting from teachers and administrators well trained in Adlerian principles. The "Education Column" of the journal, Individual Psychology, is the vehicle for sharing effective innovative techniques, procedures, summaries of research and case reports. Readers look forward to practical examples written specifically enough for easy implementation.

We would appreciate a letter of intent with the estimated date of completion; or two copies of a manuscript, double spaced on five pages; or encourage a colleague; or ask for further information. We welcome suggestions.

Send completed manuscripts to: Floy Pepper, 10809 N.E. Fremont, Portland, OR 97220; and all other correspondence to: Edna Nash, #302-2020 Bellevue Ave., West Vancouver, BC V7V 1B8, Canada.

We are happy to report that Alexandra Adler continues to recover from the serious injuries of last December. She is home and the future prognosis is quite good.

Syndicated Column Available

Last fall, Linda Albert offered, through this Newsletter, the possibility of using her syndicated "Coping with Kids" columns. Linda reports that 14 groups in the U.S., Canada, and even one in Germany, took advantage of the offer. She will continue to send the columns to those groups and she is willing to add any other interested groups to the mailing list.

ASSOCIATION OF VA CHIEF PSYCHOLOGISTS

Walter E. "Buzz" O'Connell received the 1983 Professional Service Award from the Association of VA Chief Psychologists at its meeting in August in Anaheim, California.

President Rodney R. Baker reported that the basis for this award, in part, is as follows:

"Dr. Walter E. O'Connell's clinical experience and research efforts on humor, psychotherapy, psychodrama, experiential learning, encouragement, death and dying workshops, and experience with drug abuse patients have come together in his 'Natural High' theory and practice. This theory, with its emphasis on teaching and learning encouragement and humor and a strong focus on positive elements such as esteem and belonging, is one of the early appearances of holistic medicine in institutional psychiatry. He is internationally regarded as perhaps the most productive explorer of the adaptive functions of wit and humor...."

Congratulations to "Buzz" for this distinctive honor!

Book Trade Prize to Manes Sperber

Heinz Ansbacher submitted the following piece of information to be shared with Newsletter readers.

Manes Sperber has been awarded the 1983 Peace Prize of the German Book Trade Association. Sperber, "an early student and protege of Adler," published the first biography of Alfred Adler in 1962 and, more recently, Masks of Lonliness: Alfred Adler in Perspective, New York: Macmillan, 1974.

Born in 1905 in the former Austrian province of Galicia and reared in Vienna, Sperber now lives in Paris. He is probably best known for his novel trilogy, Like a Teardrop in the Ocean, which was dramatized on German Television. In his novels and essays, according to the statement announcing the award, Sperber "has recorded the central experiences of his generation of Europeans."

The Peace Prize, which honors literary, cultural and political achievement, is one of the most prestigious awards in West Germany. It carries a stipend of DM 25,000. Last year's recipient was American diplomat and author, George F. Kennan.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Vancouver--The Adlerian Psychology Association of British Columbia (APABC) reports that through the efforts of Luella Downing, the Association was able to participate in a series of programs throughout the month of May--British Columbia's "Family Month." In joint sponsorship with the University Women's Club, the B.C. Council of the Family and the Pastoral Institute of B.A., APABC participated actively in a series of five programs under the general title of "Today's Force: The Family."

The Pre-School Committee of APABC, chaired by Bob Armstrong, reports on other good news at the Association. APABC has been granted $10,000 from the Vancouver Foundation to institute a model program (Adlerian pre-school) at the False Creek Child Care Center. The grant is to last for one year. A parent education group will be instituted and research on children's behavior and parent attitudes will also be conducted. Bob Poburko will be in charge of the dispersal of funds and Bob Armstrong will sit as a voting member on the Board of the Center Society.

ONTARIO

Toronto--AAI of Ontario announces that it has been awarded a grant through the generosity of the Ontario Trillium Foundation, generated by funds made possible from the Ontario Provincial Government and the Ontario Lottery Corporation. This grant has been made for the purpose of providing more people in Ontario with family-life skills through study groups, family education centers, and by making the public aware of the existence of these ongoing programs as a preventative resource in the community.

In September, 1983 the AAI of Ontario will begin developing up to three regional and family-life skills centers across the Province with metropolitan Toronto as a starting point. Over the next four years the grant will allocate up to $135,000 toward this program. An additional amount of $120,000, over three years, will be allocated to the Institute's central office in order to strengthen communications between the family centers, to expand private sector fund-raising activity, and for additional staff. Congratulations to AAI of Ontario!

ENGLAND

Thomas G. Schramski, NASAP member from Tucson, reports that he was invited to present a series of workshops on psychodrama and Adlerian counseling for member groups of the Adlerian Society of Great Britain. He further reports that Dr. Lilian Beattie and Sheila Fairbrother have developed a very active association in Buckinghamshire. They are working in concert with Jeff Aitman, ASGB President, to develop an Adlerian counselor and psychotherapist training program in England. Anthea Miller in Cambridgeshire has facilitated the growth of parent education. Manford Sonstegaard will be returning to England again this year to conduct workshops and teach classes.

GERMANY

Aachen was the site of the Eighth Annual Meeting of the West Deutsche Psychotherapie Seminar earlier this year. Dr. Lucy Ackerknecht presented one of the three main lectures. All schools of psychotherapy participated in the seminars.

Dr. Ackerknecht spoke on psychotherapy with the elderly from the Individual Psychologist point of view and was thus able to spread Adlerian ideas to the seven hundred people in the audience. In addition to the lecture, Dr. Ackerknecht conducted a twenty-hour workshop on life style analysis with a large group of seminar members.

VENEZUELA

Caracas--Clara de Barranco and Sarita Kramer, from Caracas, attended the NASAP Convention in Boulder, Colorado in May. During the General Assembly, Sarita told something of the work that is being done in Venezuela. About 10,000 parents have been reached through STEP during the past seven years; 700 teachers are in STET programs and they have 130 STEP leaders. In addition, 50 colleges have been influenced by Adlerian psychology.

Sarita and Clara are most interested in exchanging ideas and receiving information from North America. Contact:
