Region elections

I would like to call attention to the fact that Regions I--Northwest and VI--Far West will hold Delegate Assembly elections this year. Regions II--Midwest, III--South, IV--Middle Atlantic and V--Northeast will hold elections next year. Those currently serving on the Delegate Assembly will be asked to remain in office until next year, when all regions will hold elections. This procedure for elections is the result of changes in the composition of the Delegate Assembly arising out of the restructuring.

Executive Committee meeting

The Executive Committee met in Chicago January 28 and 29. Our time was devoted to budgetary matters; updated convention report from Toronto; further study of the use of a professional convention coordinator to work with local host groups; previewing Individual

Education video tapes funded by the Clonick Estate; discussion of other possible video training tapes; plans for an Alfred Adler Memorial Workshop in Chicago November 2, 1984; additional information on plans for a computer for the central office.

Sections

The Executive Committee reviewed the development of the Sections. If you are interested in a Section and wish to be involved in its development, notify the sectional contact person listed on page 2 in this newsletter.

Convention Coordinators

I would like to recognize Susan and Steven Moore for their preparations for the Toronto Convention. Chairing a Convention is a difficult task but they are meeting it with enthusiasm, thorough planning and hard work. Thank you Susan and Steven.

1984: The Family and Beyond
32nd Annual Convention
May 25-29, 1984
Loews Westbury Hotel
Toronto, Canada

Five full days of workshops, NASAP meetings, entertainment and celebration await Adlerians at this year's NASAP Convention, hosted by the Alfred Adler Institute of Ontario.

On Friday evening, May 25, participants may look forward to social and political commentator, Stephan Lewis' Keynote Address on "The Nuclear Family in the Nuclear Age."

Preceding and following the Keynote Address, conferees may choose from a wide variety of workshops including such topics as Family Counseling, Behaviors in Organizations, Alcoholism, Techniques of Individual Psychotherapy, Dream-drama, The ABCs of Individual Education, and Death and Dying, to name but a few.

Among the speakers will be Oscar Christensen, Richard Kopp, Helen K. Cooley, Robert Powers, Jane Griffith, Gerald Mozdzierz, Lew Losoncy, Leo Gold, Miriam Pew, Raymond Corsini, Ronald Forgas, Walter "Buzz" O'Connell, and many, many more.

The entertainment highlight of the weekend will be a Gala Banquet and Auction (where proceeds will go toward the Seymour E. Clonick $50,000 Challenge Grant) on Saturday evening, May 26.

Celebration will be the key theme of the entire five days as 1984 marks the 150th birthday of Toronto--among the celebrants: Pope John Paul and Queen Elizabeth II!

Adlerian principles at work at DA meeting

Most of us work in jobs where Adlerian principles of cooperation and encouragement are unknown and in which the principles are often violated. What a satisfaction it was for me to witness Adlerian principles fully operating during the difficult and long hours of deliberation of the last Delegate Assembly (DA) meeting in November, 1983.

The DA had very real problems to be resolved in formulating the new NASAP By-Laws. Competition and discouragement could have characterized the two days of meetings. Instead, the meetings were filled with cooperation, encouragement, sharing and continued attempts to clarify goals. We were tired and weary, but instead of a divisive group we felt a sense of belonging and togetherness, of moving toward solutions that all could really accept as valid and fair.

That Adlerians heed their own words, working cooperatively together in difficult circumstances, needs to be told. For this reason, I wish to share the experience with other NASAP members, and to credit the leaders of the group, (the Executive Committee, especially President Kathy Walton) as well as the Executive Secretary (Neva Hefner) for helping to make an Adlerian work experience so richly rewarding.

Manes Sperber, Adler associate, dies at 78

Prize-winning author, psychologist and an Alfred Adler protege and associate, Manes Sperber died Sunday, February 5, 1984, in a Paris hospital of heart disease. He was 78 years of age.

Born in 1905 in the former Austro-Hungarian village of Zablotov, Sperber moved with his family to Vienna in 1914, where he studied psychology and later worked with Adler. By the time he was 16 years old, he was assisting Adler in his psychological studies and the two became close associates. His essay, Alfred Adler, the Man and His Teachings, was published in 1926, a year before he began teaching psychology at the University of Berlin. Heinz Ansbacher has noted that this was the first published biography of Adler. More recently, Sperber authored Masks of Loneliness: Alfred Adler in Perspective (New York: MacMillan, '74).

After 1940, Sperber wrote what has become his best known work, an autobiographical trilogy, Like a Tear in the Ocean, which traced in personal terms the individual's struggle against Fascist and Stalinist repression. Upton Sinclair compared one book in this trilogy to the writings of Theodore Dreiser and John Steinbeck. In October, Sperber was recipient of the 1983 Peace Prize given by the West German Book Industry.

Eugene McClory, AAI Chicago head, honored

Former NASAP Executive Secretary (1973-75), long-time NASAP member and President of the Alfred Adler Institute of Chicago, Eugene McClory, is resigning from the post he held for twelve years. The Institute's Board of Directors honored Mr. McClory at a January 21 dinner at Chicago's Blackhawk restaurant, where 85 colleagues, co-workers, alumnae/i, students, faculty, friends and family gathered to express their appreciation of McClory's distinguished and dedicated service.

Mr. McClory shares this message with his fellow NASAP members:

Many NASAP members were present for the dinner. Your kind words expressed by Neva Hefner [on behalf of NASAP] are deeply appreciated. Many of you who were unable to be present have phoned or written. I am very grateful to all of you for your support of AAI and your encouragement to me personally. I look forward to seeing you again at meetings of the Society.

O'Connell featured

Walter E. "Buzz" O'Connell and his work in humor was featured in The Houston Digest, a weekly newspaper, in November. The lead stated "Humor therapy expert and VA veteran counselor Dr. O'Connell tells Houston people you can accept praise or stress if you can accept yourself. You might even laugh." O'Connell is approaching his 30th year at the VA Hospital. in Houston and has written 200 articles on the sense of humor, death and dying and religion. He has been voted one of the top ten psychodramatists in the nation by the American Psychological Association's psychotherapy division.

NASAP member lectures in Pakistan

In November, 1983, NASAP member, Anna Sten, lectured at the International Conference on Science held in Pakistan. Her paper, "Inventive Psychotherapeutic Approaches to Human Needs and Feeling," was well received in an Islamic country where Freudian ideas of the libido are often feared. And, although Dr. Sten was the only Adlerian present, three hundred copies of her recent articles were distributed and accepted by the non-Adlerian conferees. Dr. Sten notes that both occurrences are unusual and examples of a significant step forward for the Pakistani.

Dr. Sten explains that the highlight of her trip was her private audience with the President of Pakistan. She was the only woman given such honor.

Adlerians publish handbook on child custody

The Maple Ridge Family Education Center in Canada's British Columbia announce their publication of a child custody handbook for divorcing parents entitled, Mine, Yours or Ours?, written by Linda King. This handbook provides basic information for parents faced with this decision. It outlines the advantages and disadvantages of the usual custody designations; gives criteria for decision making; includes some legal information, a book list, service list, and more.

33 pages; $6; send orders to: Maple Ridge Family Education Center, 11907-228 Street, Maple Ridge, BC V2X 8G8, Canada; make payments to Linda King.

The following review of Mine, Yours or Ours?, written by Tom Beames, appeared in a recent issue of the APABC Newsletter:

...it [Mine, Yours or Ours?] is timely, well-written, factually accurate, and remarkably complete. The concept of joint custody is, as Linda King is all too aware, a new one in our society. Ground in this area is still being broken, a fact that makes her handbook all the more timely. The almost poignant quality of the introduction, and the highly personal style that appears throughout the pages makes this reference all the more readable...It is written in simple language, and defines terms and outlines the roles of lawyers, judges, the court, and the mediators...a little gem of a booklet....

Harold Mosak is in the process of editing The Complete Papers of Alfred Adler. Two publishers have expressed interest in the project. They would plan to publish 4 or 5 volumes at an estimated total cost of $25. Before undertaking it, they would like an expression of interest from the NASAP membership.

Dr. Mosak received a few replies after an item was included in the July-August, 1983 issue of the Newsletter. He needs to hear from more people before he can proceed. If you would be interested in purchasing such a set when published, contact Dr. Mosak immediately. Write to: Dr. Harold H. Mosak

Adlerian ideas grow in Alberta

Marlene Winnichuk, the Individual Psychology Society of Edmonton's (IPSE) President-elect and IPSE Newsletter Co-editor, reports that throughout Edmonton and St. Albert Adlerian ideas are spreading. Evidence of this can be found in IPSE's Fall/Winter Series for principals, teachers and parents, and in its Parent/Teacher Education Program, both of which address classroom issues and home-school relations.

The Society for Education and Support for Parents (ESP) is another example. Their extensive program covers such topics as: how parents can learn to be encouraging to their infant through school-age children; ways parents can acquire the understanding and skills related to raising children; how parents can win their teenagers over.

This certainly is evidence. IPSE's role in spreading Adlerian principles is a good example of how Adlerians can make a difference in building a healthy community.

REGION II - MIDWEST

ILLINOIS

Chicago--The Alfred Adler Institute of Chicago reports that the North Central Association Evaluation team, which visited the Institute in mid-January, has made a very positive recommendation for the continuation of the Institute's accreditation for another five-year period.

The Search Committee is reviewing candidates for the Institute's presidency. In the meantime, Gene McClory is assisting with the administration of the Institute for a limited time.

The Task Force for the Ph.D. Program is completing details on the requirements for dissertation and internship. The formal application to the Illinois Board of Higher Education for doctoral degree-granting authority is being prepared for submission.

Friends of the Institute have thus far contributed $36,000 toward the $50,000 Seymour E. Clonick Challenge Grant. Over $6,000 was given by an anonymous donor and $3,000 by the Chicago Community Trust.
