PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Summer has vanished, fall has begun. My experiences in education as a student, teacher, and author lead me to the conclusion, "The year begins in September."

Fall 1986 accentuates this beginning. I am moving to Wisconsin and beginning life as a husband and stepparent. My work as NASAP's President moves into full swing as the Executive Committee meets early this month, and we travel to Fort Wayne to continue to plan for the 1987 Convention. There are exciting projects and possibilities within NASAP.

One major project is a membership drive. I've often thought, "There must be more than a thousand Adlerians in North America." Having recently driven this number of miles, I was impressed how large 1,000 really is! If we gave each member a mile of the Interstate, we'd cover the distance between Florida and the central office!

The fixed costs of NASAP--office, journals, and salaries--are not covered by membership dues. A modest increase in membership will delay any dues increase. Most cars have room for more than a driver, so consider inviting a friend along on the NASAP journey!

Respectfully Submitted,

Don C. Dinkmeyer, Jr., Ph.D.
President

Sylvia reports that "Barbara has been a faithful co-chairperson. Each of the members have contributed in their own special way."

Milwaukee, Wisconsin--

The Selling of NASAP?

I have been a card-carrying Adlerian ever since I heard Dr. Dreikurs in 1969. It was his ideas (ok, and his splendiferous personality) that attracted me. I doubt--nay, I can say with certainty--I know that a tote bag, no matter what the words or design on it, would not have piqued my curiosity to follow it anywhere. It was ideas, thoughts, imagination, and people that stirred my soul and led me to Adler, AAI of Chicago, NASAP, and to any workshop of Dr. D's I could attend.

I am against the marketing of tote bags, beach towels, etc. for NASAP for the same reasons that I argue with my 12 year old daughter about wearing clothes with other people's names on them, or purchasing a shirt only because it has a horse and a polo rider on it. The fact that "everyone is doing it" does not mean NASAP should do it. We, too, do not have to be slaves to the gods of marketing and advertising.

Why are we doing this? Are we doing this to "get out the word?" When I joined NASAP I did not sign up to proseletize or convert. Through my work as a mental health consultant, counselor and lecturer on child rearing, people have often asked me for more information. People have inquired about books, groups, educational facilities, and organizations that espouse the same ideas that I shared with them. I directed them to NASAP, the AAIs, book lists, etc. It seems to me that once again the common bond is ideas, useful ones, ones that stir us to move and act. The "word" gets out through so many means: our lives, our work, our writings, our groups and discussions. Not our tote bags.

(Letter cont'd)

The next question that hangs over me is this: is there something wrong with our self-image? What is wrong with being the size of an organization that we are? Do we in NASAP have inferiority feelings (not a complex, of course)? Are we comparing ourselves to others, i.e. other groups or organizations? Are we too little? Not famous enough? Not rich enough? What has led us to tote bags and beach towels?

Maybe we as a group need to go back to square one: reflection and encouragement. Allow me to begin: NASAP, I like you just the way you are. You have a place on this earth because you exist. You are good enough, NASAP. You have enriched the lives of many by just your being you. You are unique, NASAP. Let us cherish this uniqueness and explore it together.

All graduates, current students and interested friends of the Institute are cordially invited to attend.

Chicago--A fourth Family Education Center has been opened in the Chicago area at the Indian Trails Public Library, Wheeling, serving the Northwest Suburban area, reports Bryna Gamson, Director of the Family Education Activities Division of the Alfred Adler Institute of Chicago. All off-site Centers will continue to offer free lectures and occasional public family counseling demonstrations, while the Center located at the Institute itself will continue its twice monthly Wednesday evening counseling as usual. All Centers operate October to May and are free of charge and open to the public.

The Institute will be providing training to the staff and parent community of the Corsini 4R school, Forest Park in Joliet, Illinois, this coming year. The Institute will be providing training for teachers, parents and the community in general during the school year. Robert L. Powers, of the Institute's faculty, will demonstrate public family counseling for the benefit of the Joliet community on October 8; three other sessions will be provided later in the year by other Institute faculty. Janet Balanoff, Institute Director of Admissions and family counselor, will be the parent educator for a 5-part parent training course. ARIZONA

Tucson--The Adlerian Society of Arizona (ASA) will present a comparison of Individual Psychology and Transactional Analysis on Friday, October 31, 1986. Erik Mansager, ASA President-Elect, reports that because of the tremendous attention focused on the Evolution of Psychotherapy Conference in Phoenix (Milton Erickson Foundation) less than a year ago, it seemed appropriate and beneficial to take a further step in such a direction.

This all-day conference will feature Professor Oscar Christensen presenting Adlerian theory and a life style demonstration and John Daley presenting TA theory and a life script demonstration. The two will then engage in a panel discussion moderated by ASA President, Steve Stein. The conference will be held at Park Hotel in Tucson. Contact: ASA, P.O. Box 40635, Tucson, AZ 85717-0635.

CALIFORNIA

Petaluma--The Family Education Center has expanded to Healdsburg, where the enthusiastic parents of the Healdsburg Cooperative Nursery School raised over $2,000 in about two weeks in order to run a six-week parenting program.

The Family Education Center has a full range of classes for parents, including drop-in parent support groups in Petaluma, Healdsburg and Rohnert Park. The center also sponsors three ongoing women's support groups, which include experiential activities and problem solving. Also available is low-fee counseling offered on a sliding scale fee basis. The counselling program is based on the Adlerian model of encouragement, empowerment and taking control of our lives, according to Julie Vittorio, publicity coordinator. They also offer programs for children and teachers in the school districts in the area, based on the Adlerian-Dreikurs cooperative communication.
