President's Message

The 1989 NASAP Convention, "Cooperation Takes Courage" was a well-run, informative opportunity for professional development, relaxation, and meetings with others. More than 360 attended from across the North American continent.

Numbers for the four day convention included 128 registrants in pre-convention workshops, 80 presentations, and 125 registrants for post-convention workshops.

The 1989 Continental Social Interest Award was given posthumously to Nick Ionedes, and was accepted by his widow Angie and daughter Stephanie at the Friday evening banquet. It was an emotional and important tribute.

NASAP Distinguished Service Awards were given to Hal McAbee, Cam Meredith, Mim Pew, and Homer Kiracofe for their work within NASAP and their communities.

I want to thank our hosts, the Alfred Adler Institute of Minnesota. The Convention Co-ordinators, Mary McGuire and Jill Marks, were superb in bringing their volunteers into the group spirit which made the convention possible. It should also be noted that our professional convention coordinator, Linda Wise, handled the logistics and made certain the events ran smoothly.

We thank the more than 100 presenters of workshops and programs who volunteered their expertise and made this information available to convention participants. I think we often fail to realize the amount of preparation and effort which goes into each workshop and program. Without the presenters, it would not have been possible.

Evaluations: Presenters have received the summary of on-site comments and evaluations from their participants. If you presented a workshop or program and have not yet received your summary, please call or write the central office.

The survey sent to all convention registrants after the event has been returned by many people. If you have not yet returned this survey, please do so immediately. A self addressed, stamped envelope was enclosed for your convenience.

This Newsletter issue contains an insert which lists audiocassettes from the Minneapolis convention. The contents have been reduced to four pages to facilitate timely mailing. The August issue will be mailed in just a few weeks. A full report of convention activities, including Interest Section reports, will be published in the next Newsletter.

#

The Business and Organizations Interest Section has submitted 50 names and requested full recognition as the sixth Interest Section within NASAP. If you wish to join this organization, please send your name to Neva Hefner at the Central Office.

#

Please note the opportunity to purchase high quality videotapes of presentations from Minneapolis. Additional information is located on the back page of the Newsletter.

As I write this message, my office is becoming stacks of boxes. Our family is moving to Bowling Green, Kentucky, where I've accepted a position as Associate Professor of Counseling at Western Kentucky University.

This is a time of opportunity for us. I feel the same way for NASAP. As summer heads into its last few weeks, take the opportunity to relax, and enjoy the warmth and sunshine of these months. You might also appreciate the special qualities which make NASAP a first class organization. It always feels that way after our convention!

Respectfully submitted,

Don Dinkmeyer, Jr., Ph.D.
President

Survey

* News and Events from the Regions *

Each month this section takes a large percentage of the Newsletter's space. Your reactions to the following survey will be appreciated.

Items are now restricted to future events of an Adlerian nature which are open to anyone and have a contact person. For example, a person's workshop for an organization would not be included in the listings.

Most listings now comprise regional conferences, Institutes and schools of professional study, summer sessions, and parent education group special offerings.

Please check the statement which best applies:

I do not read this section and would prefer the space be used for other items.

I use this section and recommend it be retained.

Please make any comments on the section in the space below:

Please return your survey to the Central Office at 202 S. State, #1212, Chicago, IL 60604. Thank you!
